About the City Mental Health Alliance

The City Mental Health Alliance (CMHA) is a not-for-profit network organisation that is business-led and owned by its members. The CMHA's success is realised through its members' contributions, knowledge and experience, organisation of events and other active efforts.

The CMHA is keen to attract London-based employers interested in supporting and improving the mental health of those working in the City.

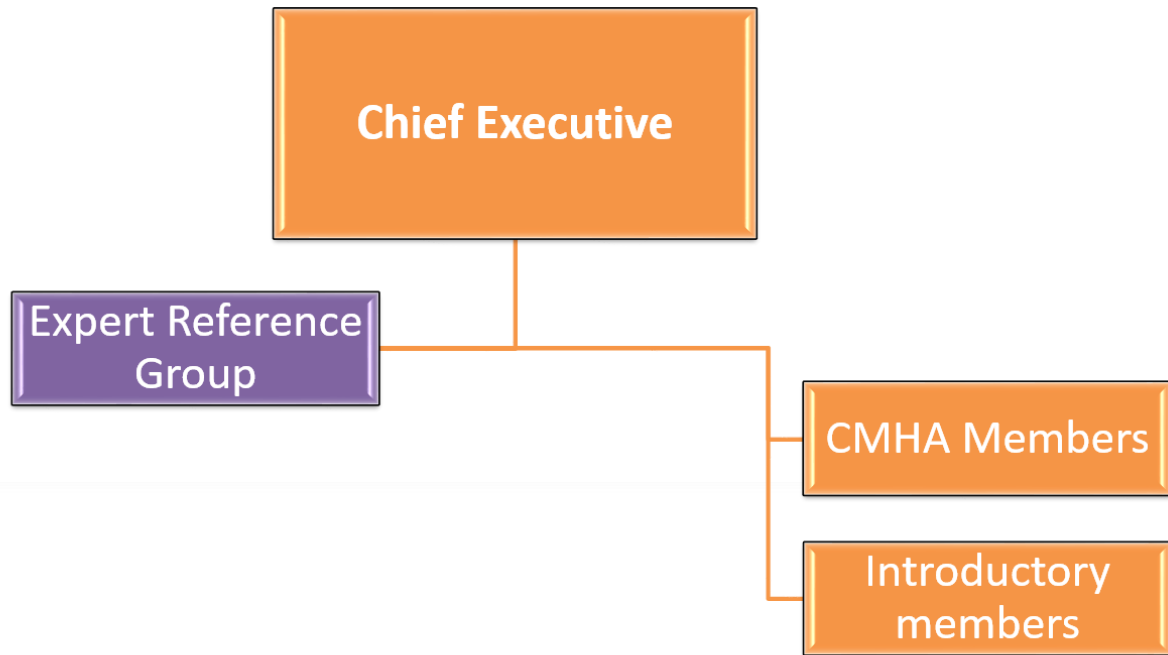

The CMHA vision

- People at all levels in the City are able to talk about mental health without fear or stigma.
- City organisations recognise mental health as a boardroom issue and consider active support for employees' mental health essential for maximising business performance, critical to managing risk and a vital responsibility for safeguarding people.
- Prevention is recognised as equally important as treatment to address mental health issues.

We aim to:

- Increase mental health literacy: develop the knowledge and understanding in the City of the full spectrum of mental health issues.
- Provide appropriate language and confidence for everyone in the city to talk articulately and with impact.
- Engage proactively with the media to encourage a better understanding and positive reporting of mental health issues in the City.
- Create a culture of openness: support people, especially senior business leaders with experience of mental health issues, to tell their stories and inspire others at any level to speak out about their experiences.
- Enable practical steps to be taken by employers: provide City employers with practical tools and the opportunity to share and hear other companies' experiences.

CMHA Structure 2017

CMHA Leaders

You are the thought leaders and innovators of the CMHA and are responsible for establishing the CMHA strategy and driving achievement of its vision.

CMHA Leader benefits

Increase mental health literacy: develop the knowledge and understanding in the City of the full spectrum of mental health issues.

- Your brand receives recognition as a leader in workplace mental health
- You are invited to participate in high-level Government events on mental health
- You are invited to respond to media requests
- You are invited to exclusive cultural and arts events relating to mental health

Provide appropriate language and confidence for everyone in the City to talk articulately and with impact.

- You become actively involved in and access benchmarking and academic research
- You have access to expert guidance from the CMHA advisory board

Create a culture of openness: support people, especially senior business leaders with experience of mental health issues, to tell their stories and inspire others at any level to speak out about their experiences.

- You have access to use tools created by the CMHA
- You are invited to participate at high level conferences and public events
- You receive coaching and support from the CMHA programme team and experts

Enable practical steps to be taken by employers: provide City employers with practical tools and the opportunity to share and hear other companies' experiences.

- You receive support from an expert advisory board
- You are invited to four events to network with members, share knowledge and experience, debate current mental health topics and learn from experts and best practice
- You receive our bi-annual newsletter with updates on current thought leadership, practical steps to reduce stigma, increase understanding and increase mental health literacy and support
- You receive regular updates on key activities, initiatives and information from experts in the mental health space
- You participate as a guest at annual public events and sponsor-only events
- You are involved with and access benchmarking and academic research
- You receive expert guidance from the CMHA advisory board
- Access to tools created by the CMHA

CMHA Leader responsibilities in line with CMHA's aims

1. Participate in a minimum data set collection so that we are the first city globally to report and monitor progress on mental health in the workplace
2. Hold a mental health focused event within your company each year
3. Attend a CMHA event each year. We will hold a minimum of two: a chairman's breakfast and an annual celebration
4. Actively engage in a mental health initiative which encourages employees to share their experiences with mental health such as the CMHA sponsored 'This is Me in the City' initiative, led by the Lord Mayor's Appeal team
5. Attend a quarterly CMHA strategy meeting
6. Provide a short synopsis of what your company is doing to support positive mental health and wellbeing in the workplace
7. Contribute an annual membership fee of £10,000

CMHA Members

You are the champions of the CMHA and this is your social movement. You are responsible for shaping the direction of mental wellbeing within your company and creating positive change in the workplace. This is your network, the first business led network of its kind globally.
